Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

DALLAS, OREGON, NOVEMBER 19, 1907.
The way to build up Dallas is to pa-ronize Dallas people.

THE PARCELS POST.

The Postmaster General will make a recommendation to congress which will settle the parcels post question. Under it, parcels may be sent through the mail with 11 pounds as the limit at 12 cents straight, to distant places, but on a city's own R. F. D. the rate will be only 5 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for additional pounds. Thus while it will cost Montgomery Ward & Co., $1.25 to send 11 pounds to John Jones, R. F. D. 1, Junction City, it will cost a Junction City merchant only 25 cents. Junction City Times.

Yes, and after this beneficent measure is once foisted upon an unsuspecting people, it will be only a matter of a short time until the firm of Montgomery Ward & Company will set up a howl about the injustice of such a provision, and backed by other rich mail order houses, will experience little difficulty in inducing an easily-worked Congress to remove the differential. Then where will your Junction City merchant get off?

The proposed Parcel Post is a cherished scheme of the rich mail order merchant to increase his riches, and if the people don't look sharp he will get what he is after. The influence that is being brought to bear upon Congress and the Postal Department is from an element that cares nothing for the prosperity of the country merchant, and the business men of the smaller towns will be greener than we think they are if they permit themselves to be fooled by argument like that of the Junction City paper and permit this iniquitous measure to become a law without protest.

The students of the University of Oregon take their defeat by the Corvallis team like true sportsmen and gentlemen. The current number of the U. of O. Weekly, the students' paper, says: "To the students of the Oregon Agricultural College, the entire student body of the University of Oregon extends congratulations. The O. A. C. football team would be a credit to any institution. If you meet Whitman, here's hoping you will win the Northwest championship by a good margin." One cannot help contrasting this spirit with that shown by certain Oregon colleges a few years ago, when, after the basketball team of Dallas College had fairly and honestly defeated every opposing team in the state, crowds of rooters from neighboring schools flocked to Dallas and yelled themselves hoarse for the University of Washington team, when the interstate championship was at stake. State pride counted for naught with that bunch, but it evidently counts for much with the loyal young men and young women at the University of Oregon. By the way, Corvallis itself could pick up a few pointers on decent conduct and courteous treatment of visitors from the good people of Eugene.

The death of Dr. James E. Kirkpatrick marks the end of a long and useful life. A physician of the old school, whose practice was by choice confined to the rural communities, Doctor Kirkpatrick's professional career was that of the faithful, self-sacrificing country practitioner whose chief concern is for the relief of suffering humanity rather than for the achievement of fame and the accumulation of wealth. His was a kindly, sympathetic nature that brought cheer to the sick room and comfort to the sorrowing. A man of wide reading, deep reasoning powers, rare wit, fine social qualities, and courtly bearing, his friendship was highly prized by his neighbors, who found in him a delightful companion and a gentleman of the finest type. His passing at the ripe old age of 82 years brings to a fitting close a life of useful and conscientious endeavor.

Lin is not alone in the matter of setting out thousands of fruit trees this season. Polk, Yamhill, Marion, Benton and Lane are each doing their share toward making the Willamette Valley one of the greatest and best fruit raising sections in the world. In a few years these counties will reap the benefits. When a section of country shows a disposition to do something for itself there is always prosperity and an air of activity that is invigorating and catching. —Brownsville Times.

The Willamette Valley had the apples, as every resident knew, but it required the indomitable will and courage of a Millard Lowndale to compel the recognition to which they were entitled.

A newspaper publisher receives all kinds of proposals to trade merchandise for advertising space, and if he is wise, accepts none of them. The latest to reach the Observer office is an offer to pay for advertising space in "Bull Dog" suspenders. Nothing doing. The publisher of a paper filled with advertising of this class would soon find that he didn't need the suspenders—he would have plenty of time to hold up his trousers with his hands.

"You can always bet on Old Polk being on hand when there is anything big doing in Oregon." This remark by a stranger was overheard by a Dallas man in Portland, Friday, when some one had called the attention of the crowd to the box of prize-winning Spitzenbergs from the Wallace orchard, displayed in Olds, Wortman & King's show window. Whereupon, the Polk county citizen experienced a developing of the chest that was wholly pardonable under the circumstances.

The Willamette and Hood River apple raisers have at last buried the hatchet, so 'tis said. Well, it was a harmless sort of battle, anyway, and its outcome has proved what the wise ones have known all along, namely, that the production of a first-class apple crop in Oregon depends upon energy intelligently applied, rather than upon location. The rivalry that has existed between Hood River and the Willamette Valley has been of inestimable benefit to the orchardists of both districts, and has placed Oregon in the very front rank of the apple-growing states of the Union. For the benefit of this important industry, even yet in its infancy, let us hope that this spirit of competition, with every trace of malice and bitterness removed, will be more keen in the future than it has been in the past. Let the rivalry be intense, but let it be of the friendly sort.

Earl Matheny, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Matheny, was painfully injured Sunday afternoon, his left leg being broken near the ankle joint. According to his own story, the boy was sitting down, when one of his playmates jumped upon his knee, the sudden shock turning his foot under him and snapping the bone instantly. The limb was not bruised or lacerated in any way, however, and will heal rapidly.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a waste of time to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to ask it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the stomach, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent frequent yawning or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rising" to the throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more thoroughly than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to it until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is an extract of native medicinal plants with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and attested by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.
